Hello Everyone,

Hope you are keeping safe at homes with your family members !!

With implementation of unlock 2.0 process, GOI has started lifting the bans throughout the country. And due to this, there is some positive movement in all the sectors across the country.

Although, India's indigenously developed vaccine has got approvals for human trial, it is equally clear that all of us have to learn to live with the COVID19 till the time any of the medical solution is commercially available in the mass market.

While, education sector will still take some time to bounce back to normal, IIFA has very quickly adapted to new normal and has ventured into online classes.

On top of it, we are also planning to make online classes a new normal for all of our existing and prospective students and to cater this we have created a new solution in this tough time. I will share the details of this solution with all of you very soon..

I am sure like any dark night, this difficult period will also pass and we will see a new dawn very soon !!!!

Till then, Stay Home ! Stay Safe ! Stay Healthy !

With Warm Wishes

It's important for parents & educators to recognize that e-learning is here to stay. In order to make online sessions effective and engaging it's crucial for them to take place in small groups and allow children to actively participate.

interactive skills in students and is also necessary for the all around development.

Yes. Most definitely online education is the future of education. The COVID-19 crisis has taught us all a lesson that if implemented properly the knowledge can also be gained from online education. While e-learning won't replace traditional classrooms, it will change the way we know them today. With improved resources and reduced teacher workloads, classrooms can shift to co-learning spaces. Students can arrive, learn, engage-all at their own pace in a collaborative environment Convenience and flexibility: Online courses give students the opportunity to plan study time around the rest of their day, instead of the other way around.

The spread of corona has brought a boom in the field of online education and it is certainly the future of education. But as a parent of a 6 year old I feel that this paradigm is not as promising as the traditional classroom set-up. The young learners are dependent, lack willingness to learn, have more distractions and the biggest disadvantage being the absence of teacher-student interaction which is essential for elementary and secondary school age. In my opinion the online medium is more suitable for independent learners who are responsible for their own learning. For the younger lot it is only better than having no classes at all.

Ruchi Sachdeva
Technology is the new future. With the current global situation safety of students can only be maintained by confining them in their homes. In the future online classes will definitely be our knight in shining armor though I hope that we do not suffer from a scenario where we have to opt for it. Interacting with other students and being present in the physical boundaries of the school helps in collating
